> Last Night will Prove a Squelcher, and that Refugees May be Permitted to Return Home by the End of the Week.

Only twenty-five new cases of yellow-fever i the city and suburbs yesterday and only on the plague, and robbed it of much of its strength. What is left has, we hope, been tamped out by the frost of last night, the first black killing-frost we have yet had. ome of our citizens who have been refugeeing a few miles from town have returned and a few of the campers-out, but we think it hazardous even for them to do so. Certainly it will not do for those who are farther nway to think of coming back until the beard of health officially declares the fever yellow-fever. The story of Mr. Zadeck, of Terene, one of the Saddest that the History of the Great Plague Can Afford.

The national relief boat John M. Chamber command of Dieutenant Chas M. Hall urgeon H. M. Keys in charge of medical department, arrived at this port last evening at seven o'clock, after a tedious journey from Vicksburg, having left that port last Friday evening at four o'clock. Though danger was anticipated by Surgeon Keys, on account of the infection caused on the boat by the sick-ness of Lieutenant H. H. Benner, who gave p his life in the noble cause of administering suffering people at points along th river where the malrrta was most virulent the health of all on board has been good, act a single case of illess having occure of the boat, who was taken down a day after as a man, who is a "man for a that," and Lieutenant Benner was attacked, and imme who I can cheerfully recommend to this com- diately removed to the hospital, where h died last Friday morning of the fever. The MR. W. J. B. LONSDALE, assistant com- two St. Louis pilots, who started out with missioner of immigration, of West Tennes-see, and his wife and child, says the Colum-would be imprudent for them to proceed up though almost too weak from prostration to do full service, agreed to take the wheel and pilot the boat through to this port. The former not knowing the river above this point > the boat, as a precautionary measure in case cepted by Surgeon Keyes, they were fortu-nately not needed, and will return to Vicks burg on the first train to-morrow. The rehef boat made but one stoppage at any port on the up-trip, that at Terrene, at the mouth of White river, where the steamer replenished her coal supply. This town, too, has its story of woe, and though the scourge has not been wide spread at that point it has left but two out of a household of ten, the sur-vivers being Mr. J. H. Zadeck, the postmaster, and a babe of but two summers. On arriving at Terrene, Lieutenant Hall heard of the distress of Zadeck, and sent a note of sympathy, coupled with the announceme that it would be impossible to render assist-ance as the relief boat was destitute of sup-plies. Mr. Zadeck sent back word that he was a prisoner in his own house, that the cit-izens of the town had his house guarded against his egress, and would permit no one to see him. In fact, he was in quarantine in his own home, He was not suffering for the necessaries of life and health, but was anxious to get away from the house of death, where wife, child and relatives had slept their last sleep. his letter he says that most of the dead were

As soon as a Memphis and St. Louis pilot secured and Lieutenant Hall and Surgeon Keyes have transacted official business b elegraph with District-Attorney Bliss, St. Louis, and Governor Shepherd, of Washington, the boat will move up on her way home, followed by the blessings of many to whom it has ministered aying postal orders.

He took cut ten tons of mail matter, the largest that has ever left this city on any route, and spent sleepless nights in the performance of his duty. That duty fin-ished, he tendered his services as a nurse to Lieutenant Benner, and watched faithfully by his bedside to the last, giving the same aid which had signalized his success in that capacity in so many instances in this city. The distribution of that mail to the benighted denizens along the banks of the Mississippi, who had been virtually out of the world since the incipiency of the plague, was the rowning glory of the mission of the relief FINANCIAL.

THERE is not now and never has been a case of yellow-fever at the University of Mississippi, or in Oxford, or in this county, and we have had two frosts this week.
